An Honest Newsboy's Reward.

LENGTH, 745 FEET.

COPYRIGHT 1908

A deserving, energetic little lad thrown on his own resources at a tender age helping his mother and sister to keep "the wolf away," uses his spare moments in selling papers.

An old merchant drops a bulging wallet while crossing the street, which the boy sees and attempts to restore. An automobile throws him to the ground. The merchant takes him to the hospital. The boy hands the wallet to its surprised owner who gives him the contents and his address. Restored to health he visits the rich man's place of business and there he is received with kindness and given work. Instead of frittering his time—his nights are spent in study—and being of a mechanical turn, invents a machine calculated to save his employer many thousands. His superior qualities are recognized by his employer who receives him as a partner. The changes in the fortunes of the little family from wretchedness to affluence, smiles and joy in place of darkness, all reward the aggressive little hero.

TWO LITTLE DOGS.

LENGTH, 210 FEET.

COPYRIGHT 1908

"Pat" Clancy and "Heinz" Dietrich work together as laborers. On their way to work one buys a paper and reads of "a family being saved from burglary by their pet dog." Much affected at this story they "knock off" work, and buy their pet dog. Much affected at this story they "knock off" work, and buy dogs which they take home. The dogs begin to fight, the two families participate in the melee with such vigor that the cops interfere and they are carted off before the magistrate where another discussion starts and dogs, police, Irish, Dutch, old and young, pile up in a compact mass.
